The Board members were informed that the RET was conducted for the session 2018-19. Out of a total applicants of 131, 16 candidates were exempted from RET on the basis of NET/SET qualified by them, as per provision of the IISU M.Phil./ Ph.D. Bye-Laws. Out of the 115 eligible candidates, 101 candidates appeared in RET, out of which 89 candidates qualified, making total number of eligible candidates for admission to M.Phil./Ph.D. 105. The faculty wise breakup of the eligible candidates is as shown in Annexure – VI.

admission in Ph.D. programme after the conduction of Main RET approach the university for considering their admission on vacant seats. As such, the university has a provision of conducting special RET for those candidates whose results are declared late i.e., after conduction of main RET for the year, in only those subjects where seats remain vacant. It was also informed by the chair person that since the RET is a computer based objective type test, in which questions to a candidate are given by random selection from a questing bank, conduction of special RET does not effect in any way the sanctity and norms of admissions prescribed by the UGC. The Board members observed that Prof. Samant be informed about the procedure and modalities observed by the university regarding conduction of RET and admission of candidates to Ph.D. degree.

The Board members were further informed that 93 candidate-wise Research Advisory Committees (RACs) have been constituted, as per provisions of UGC Regulations 2016 Annexure – VII.

At the end of the meeting, it was also suggested by Prof. Vijay Vir Singh that if a paper comes to the editorial board of IISU for its publication in the IISU Journals, it should be first reviewed by the internal reviewer and then only be send to external reviewer for evaluation. Thus after double evaluation of the paper (Internal and External), its quality will be enhanced and as such, the impact factor of the journal will also increase.

The recommendations made by Prof. Vijay veer Singh were given accent by the Chair Person Dr. Ashok Gupta. It was observed that the editors of the IISU journals be informed to follow the process of the double evaluation of the research papers.

The meeting ended with a vote of thanks to the chair.

1. To Monitor the Annual Progress of Ms. Gunja Patni, Ph.D. scholar

The research progress of the scholar was found satisfactory as she had submitted all the five chapters to her Supervisor. However the following suggestions were made:

- Reduce the references to too many critics and thinkers as well as to Western feminist scholarship

- Explain in detail the idea of the three phases of Indian feminism and how she differentiates Indian from Third World feminism
- Look at Indian culture changing through history; do not spend too much time on the representation of women in erotic lit.
- In Chap. 4, examine how gender-formation and the issue of violence are dealt with by Anita Nair as compared to Sreemoyee Piu Kundu and Meena Kandasamy
- Take up the idea of body as a symbol - mentioned only in passing - in greater detail
- No need to discuss the subjectivity of the writer at any point and avoid unnecessary, pedantic language
- Can discuss When I Hit You..... as a bildungsroman to show it as a growing-up novel. i.e. if only the writer takes us through her early, formative years
- Use the idea that a woman's silence is broken through her act of writing, when she articulates her wants, needs, desires, etc.
- In chapters where both novel and poems are discussed, analyze the specifics of the writer's style of writing in both the genres
- Must defend, in the Conclusion, the selection of the three novelists in terms of not only their themes & issues but also the writerly orientation despite them revealing diff. aspects of the postmodern sensibility

- Prof. Samant enquired about the status of patents. The registrar informed him and the other members that despite having a permanent patent attorney on the roll of the university, the University has not been able to promote the filing of patents for the reasons that the faculty members prefer to publish new results, without waiting for the patent application. Prof. Samant advised that the University can promote the consultancy services with reference to the new research.
- Prof. Samant also advised to set up a small cell for assisting the faculty in preparation of good research papers.
- Prof. Samant advocated for incentive for good publications and to link promotions with the publications.

Dr. Ashok Gupta, Chairperson of the committee, thanked all the members, especially Prof. S.D. Samant for many useful suggestions made by him and showing his faith in the university. He added that if we are able to implement some of the suggestions made by him, we can improve our system to perform better.

The meeting ended with a vote of thanks to the chair.
